WHY WOOL?

Wool has a strong track record. As in, thousands of years strong. The first instances of wool as a textile date back to 1500 BC, and for great reason: wool is a renewable source of workable fiber, harvested without any harm to the animal.

Wool is cleaned and refined into a more cooperative felt product with an array of natural features, including wrinkle resistance, anti-static, high burning point, insulative properties, shock resistance—the list goes on.
